Now that you district organization has vindicated you and set its seal of approval on your actions, is it not proper for you to make the victim of Power and Cunningham in that $5,000 affs rg.

Now, not while that story was not given to me in confidence, yet I feel that I have no right to make public the names of the parties. It is enough that I offered to reveal anything to a select committee in secrecy and take Power in with me to hear it. I am content.

"In your speech to the Seventeenth Assembly District meeting has night yours ferred to one of the County Democracy who had to leave the country because he refused to tell whom he divided his money with. To swhom did you refer and with whom did he divide."

Rooms seems to know hust why the young Sasniard shot the lawyer, who is one of the oldest and weathiest in the city.

Ex-ludge Heynoids only became sequainted with Airs. Stephani about a year age. She had recently lost her husband and she employed him to settle her husband's estate. He had been for many years encaged in the fruit importing business at 126 and 138 Cectar street.

When he died he left cash legacies amounting to about $10,000 apiece to each of his two sons, and the bulk of his estate valued at $100,000 to his wife.

Of this sum, it is alieged, Alphones tried to rob his mother. He is said to be a sambler and a libertine, who would speedily have spent it in riotous living.

He did get control of some $50,000 in gilt-eiged bonds and locked them in a box in the New York Safe-Deposit Company's vanit at 140 Broadway.

It was to recover this sum githat Mrs. Stephani employed Mr. Reynoids, and his action in the matter bred lil-feeling between the two men.

Two months ago mother and son bad a Counsel, Beekmah-who would be nobede if his name were not Beekman-was disgustingly obsequious. But when Grant got through with him he turned him out and appointed Billy Clark, whom he knew he could trust. Power is an untru him man, and a man without magnetism. These leaders have driven out of the party Purroy, one of the finest of min; Justice O'Really, who made leekman, and who took his district organization with him; Commissioner Veorhia, who took the whole Ninth District with him; Judge White, who is one of the strong men, and Ed Kearney, who had wealth and influence and skill enough to make those who could afford it come down with money; and now they would drive me out. But they can't do it!

M'CALLA GOT OFF EASY.

That is the General Opinion About the Commander's Sentence.

The lenity shown by the Naval Court-Martial in the sentence which it has im-posed upon Commander Bowman H. Mcpossed upon Commander Bowman H. Me-Calla, after finding him guilty of all the charges proferred against him, has created no little surprise about town, and in naval circles as well.

To be suspended from rank and duly for only three years, at the same time being permitted to retain his present number on the list of commanders, is regarded as an attromety light penaity.

It is only equivalent to placing Capt. Mc-Calla on a three years furlough at half pay, which will reduce his salary from $1,500 a year to $1,750, during the period of his suspension.

As general rule the naval officers in this visinity regarded his conduct as fully warranting his dismissal from the service, every one of the charges against him haveing been fully proven to the satisfaction of the courte-rarias, and many of them isok upon the decision with extreme dissatisfaction.

upon the decision with extreme dissatisfaction.

Another surprising feature of the case is the fact that ten out of the twelve members of the court-martial signed a recommendation to elemency, and the Secretary of the Navy, in his review of the case, save that he approves the findings of the court and its sentence with great reluctance.

Commander Med alla himself looks at the matter in another fisht, and says he believes the sentence is more severe than the circumstances warranted, adding that so far as the performance of his whole duty while commander of the Enterorise is concerned his connecence is perfectly clear.

A Walk-Over for Vaux.

During the past few months several letters have come to The Evening World office, the tenor of which was alike in each case. The writers, young cirls, complained that although the particolar gentlemen who monopolized most of their time and showed them every attention, professing great admiration for them, and were in every respect eligible young men, never gave the slightest hint shout matrimony.

One of them, in particular, whited that the gentlemen who escarted her to places of annualment, and was a regular "Wednesday and Bunday night caller," had kept up Lindemann was in court to press the charge. His head had been shaved, and three large red marks were visible where he had been struck with a club—a heavy, ugivalosing weapon fully three feet long.

Lindemann toid Judge White that he was closing the store last evening when Villaments came up to him with a couple of friends and asked his name.

Upon his answering, he says, the prisoner struck him across the head with the club, knocking him senseless.

Lawer Goldberg, who defended Villamens, pleaded not guilty, and asked for an examination.

He said that Lindemann and Miss Villamens, the prisoner's sister, worked in the same place. Lindemann had invalid the
